ALL HATE THE MUSCOVITE HOSTS

Russian Ship Is Sunk by a Japanese Boat--Are Taking Daily Advantages Over the Czar's Troops.

[Special by Scripps-McLain.]
Berlin, June 6.—The Japanese are using Chinese soldiers in their army in Manchuria, according to private advices received here from the scene of operations. These reports say that fully 30,000 Manchus, mostly Manchus, are now incorporated in the Japanese army and that the number is constantly being added to. They are under Japanese officers, both commissioned and non-commissioned and are scattered in small bodies throughout the invading force, except in the army which is detailed to attack Port Arthur.

This is composed entirely of Japanese and the very pick of the Manchus' troops are under Gen. Oka. It is said these Manchus make fine soldiers. They are imbued with a bitter hatred of Russia.

This news has caused a good deal of talk among military men and the point is being discussed as to what effect it will have on Chinese neutrality. It is generally held that China can only be held responsible if recruiting is permitted in Chinese territory. This is said not to be the case, all the Manchus serving under the Japanese flag having been enlisted in Manchuria.

It is reported that the authorities at St. Petersburg are greatly worried over the activity of the guerrillas in the country between Harbin and Mukden. The railroad between those points has to be heavily guarded to prevent raids from these bandits, who are said by the Russians to be directed by Japanese officers.

To Make Sure
Chefoo, June 6.—The Russian squadron at Port Arthur will soon be forced to make a sortie, according to advices received here from the Kwan Tung peninsula today. The Japanese gunners have caught the range of the basin in which the warships lay and are directing a good part of their fire against the squadron; with what effect it is impossible to say.

It is known however that the space in the harbor in which the big ships can go is limited. The Japanese are confident they soon will make the harbor untenable and the Russian admiral will be compelled to take the chances of battle with the superior fleet. In any event, the Japanese predict the annihilation of the Russian squadron within a few days.

Additional siege guns are constantly arriving at the front, and the severity of the fire on the defenses of Port Arthur is constantly increasing. There has been little close fighting for the past day or two, but the artillery duel is growing fiercer.

It is now said it will be a couple of weeks at least before Gen. Oka will be ready to make the supreme effort to capture Port Arthur by direct assault.

Another Gunboat
Tokio, June 6.—The Russian gunboat Gilyak was destroyed by a Japanese torpedo at Port Arthur Saturday. The Gilyak was launched at St. Petersburg in 1897. She was of 635 tons displacement and carried one 4.7-inch gun, five 3-inch, two 2-inch and one 1-inch guns. Her speed was 12 knots.

Tokio, June 6.—The Russian gunboat Gilyak was torpedoed and destroyed at Port Arthur Saturday.

Admiral Togo has transmitted to the war office information which indicates almost positively that the Russian fleet is in the harbor.

PAPERMAKERS TO DEFY UNION

Manufacturers Will Try to Start Mills
With Nonunion Employees.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 6.—According to L. M. Alexander, one of the leading Chicago officers of the General Paper company, the Wisconsin papermakers this week will make a determined effort to break the strike. The first effort will be made at the Combined Locks paper mill, for which nearly enough nonunion men have been secured to place the plant in operation again. This, if successful, will be continued in other plants.

Strikers Outline Action.

Appleton, Wis., June 6.—Three hundred papermakers of Appleton, Kaukauna, Neenah and Menasha met in this city Sunday to outline a plan of action for the strike begun Saturday night. President Mackey of the International Brotherhood of Papermakers addressed the meeting, advising the local union to make absolutely no overtures to the manufacturers, but to allow the situation to work itself out, and to force the employers to take the first step toward conciliation. He recommended that the men individually ignore all concessions and offers made by the manufacturers and that the union await such time as the situation demands for its recognition.

slane hemmed in at Port Arthur have finally begun the destruction of the remaining warships of their fleet to prevent them from falling into the hands of the Japanese when the fortress falls.

Admiral Togo's report is the substance of a message received by him from the captain of the cruiser Chitose, which has been cruising in the closest proximity to Port Arthur.

The captain of the Chitose reports that while cruising off the entrance to the harbor on Saturday he heard great explosions and detonations. After each explosion, he declares, a dense volume of smoke was seen to rise from points inside the harbor.

Use Wireless Telegraph.
The captain of the Chitose also reported to Admiral Togo that he ventured close enough to the harbor to observe four masts, one with wireless telegraph instruments and a sentry box, on the summit of Liao Tao Shan. Admiral Togo's dispatch has only one meaning for the Japanese here. That is that the Russians have at last decided upon the heroic expedient of destroying their remaining vessels to prevent them from falling into the hands of Admiral Togo's fleet.

Concluded with the rapid advance of General Kuroki's army upon the Russian stronghold, repeated attempts have been made by the Russians to get their vessels out of Port Arthur and through the cordon which has been drawn around the entrance to the harbor by the Japanese fleet.

Hold Vessels in Harbor.
Every attempt has been foiled by the vigilance of the Japanese commanders, and it is evident that Russian commanders have come to the conclusion that it is absolutely hopeless to save their vessels from falling into the hands of the Japanese.

Admiral Togo's dispatch also confirms the suspicion entertained here that the Russians at Port Arthur are communicating with points on the Chinese coast by means of wireless telegraphy. It was reported that a wireless station had been erected secretly at the village of Peh Wang on Takin Island, one of the Miao Tan group situated in Pe Chih-Li Strait. It is reported that another such station has been erected near Sihan Hui Kwan, and the Japanese are investigating this matter.

The Japanese torpedo boat destroyer Hanzuki discovered and exploded a large mine off San Shan Island at the entrance to Taiten Wan Bay. The Japanese naval authorities engaged in clearing out the mines in the vicinity of Taiten Wan Bay are employing Japanese shell divers from Kishu province for this purpose.

These divers volunteered for this work, and are wonderfully expert. It is said that with their diving paraphernalia they can stay under water for half a day at a time.

Hundreds of Japanese fishermen volunteered to assist in clearing away Russian mines, and it is probable that some of them will be used for this work. These voluntary offers are taken to illustrate the unity of the Japanese people in the war.

BURGLAR DIVES INTO SEWER

Safebreaker Escapes From Syracuse
Police Under Fire.

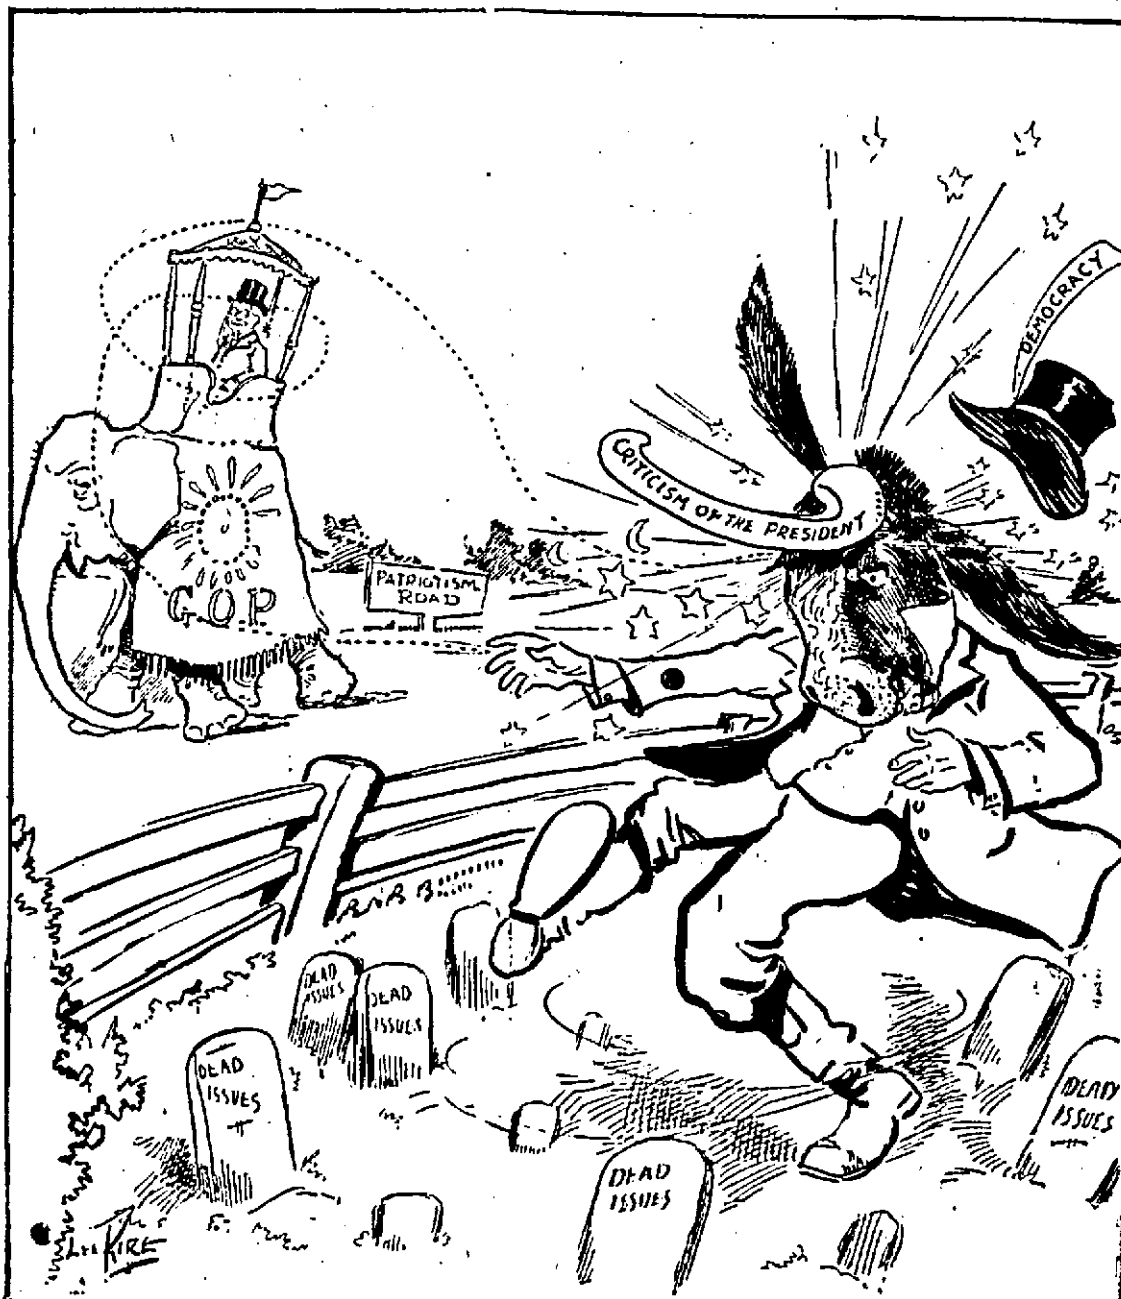

Syracuse, N. Y., June 6.—Not satisfied with their booty of $800 obtained as the result of one safe robbery, two burglars went to work on another early Sunday morning and thereby caused their undoing. Some time during the night the two blew open a safe in a business house in the heart of the city and got away with the $800 it contained without being detected. Then they tried another not far away. They were surprised by the police while at work and a pistol fight in the street followed. One man was captured, badly wounded, but the other escaped under fire by diving into a big trunk line sewer. The man arrested refuses to give his name, but it is claimed by the police that he is a famous crook.

Operation Causes Death.

FOURTEEN LOSE LIVES IN DISTILLERY FIRE

Only Four Victims of Saturday's Explosion at Peoria Whisky Factory Are Identified.

Peoria, Ill., June 6.—It is now known that fourteen men lost their lives in the fire and explosion at the Corning distillery Saturday afternoon. Eight bodies were recovered from the ruins Sunday, four of which were identified. Those identified are:

George Gebhardt.
Peter Lettemeyer.
Thomas E. Montgomery.
Samuel Parsons.
The list of missing is as follows:
Ernest Brown.
Milton Cray.
William Finley, Jr.
John Hehaker.
Frank Knoll.
Alec Powell.
Louis Sax.
John Unshue.
Joseph Zimmerman.

Of the eight bodies taken from the ruins only four of them were recognized and these only by means of particles of clothing, watches, knives and other pieces of metal. The search is being continued. The fire having been extinguished and the workmen now able to handle the debris.

MEETING OF BAR
OF ROCK COUNTYWAS HELD IN CIRCUIT COURT
CHAMBERS TODAY.

COMMITTEES MAKE REPORT

Meeting Adjourned Until June 15th at Seven O'clock, to Settle Matters Then.

Judge Dunwiddle being in Madison and Clerk of Court Goldin being absent from the city, the call of the cases pending for the June calendar was read by Miss Rich before the meeting of the Janesville bar association this morning. The cases were adjourned until the return of the judge. New officers elected by the association for the ensuing year were: William Smith, president; John Cunningham, vice president; A. M. Fisher, secretary; B. M. Palmer, treasurer. A resolution asking Judge Dunwiddle to continue the reporter system of law books owned by the county, some of the sets of which have been discontinued, was passed. A committee of five with Wm. Smith as chairman, was appointed to consider the project of a central law library which would be supported and maintained by all of the attorneys of the city. A committee with A. A. Jackson as chairman was appointed to prepare the program and arrange for a banquet at the next annual meeting of the bar association.

After hearing the report of the grievance committee the association adjourned until June 15 at seven p. m. when the committee's report will again be taken up and acted upon. This committee consists of William Smith, Ogden H. Fethers and A. E. Matheson.

Grand Assistant.

Los Angeles, June 6.—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers elected R. Bottrell of Ottawa, Can., first assistant grand engineer after several ballots. J. C. Currie of Cleveland, O., was re-elected second grand assistant engineer by acclamation. D. Everett, third grand assistant engineer, holds over for another term. H. Tucker of Brooklyn was elected grand guilds over Benjamin Evans, the present incumbent.

BONDAGE WINS THE HANDICAP

Judge Himes, the Favorite, Winds Up
In the Buck.

Chicago, June 6.—Bondage, trained and owned by James Arthur, with J. McIntyre up, won the Harlem National handicap at the Provision course Saturday. The old "quintine horse" was backed as a good thing. He finished four lengths in front of Fonso-luca, with Gregor K. in third place, whipped out to defeat the fast-coming Horatius. Judge Himes, the favorite, was far back, tired and almost staggering from his early effort to keep up with the bunch.

HEARST WILL NOT BOLT
DEMOCRATIC TICKETPresidential Candidate Says He Does Not Have to be Bribed to Support the Nominees.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 6.—"The question of my nomination for the presidential office by the St. Louis convention is to me, as well as to the party, one of minor importance when compared with the real problems that the convention must determine. My own candidacy is of no moment, except as it bears upon the greater question of whether the Democratic party shall be dominated by that element which does not look beyond the offices or whether what I have been pleased to term 'progressive Democracy' shall prevail."

In these words William Randolph Hearst discussed his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination. It has been rumored if Mr. Hearst should not be nominated he would bolt the ticket and platform. An editorial in his newspaper lent color to this, but Mr. Hearst denied emphatically that the popular construction placed upon the editorial was in accord with the meaning it was intended to convey and answered a question relating to his intentions about bolting by saying:

"I am a loyal enough Democrat not to have to be bribed into supporting the nominees and platform of my party. Politicians and conventions do not make the issues of a political campaign. They may write the party's platforms, but issues are the things that directly and seriously affect the interests of the masses of the people, and these are too frequently ignored by both politicians and conventions. The moment, I believe, is ripe for the advent of the progressive Democracy, which shall go to the people as a sincere advocate of an honest issue, entirely disregarding the things that are ordinarily held out as issues."

"In my opinion the one preponderant issue in the campaign this year is that which is created by the trusts, which grows out of the exactions practiced by those trusts that seek to create monopolies in the necessities of life, and out of the depredations of the purely speculative trusts."

PREPARE FOR TRISTATE FAIR

Dubuque Retailers Ready for Illinois,
Wisconsin and Iowa Exhibits.

Dubuque, Ia., June 6.—The Dubuque Retailers' Association has completed all arrangements for the tristate fair which will be held in this city in August. This will be the biggest enterprise of its kind ever undertaken by the business men of Dubuque and in magnitude will eclipse the annual state fair held at Des Moines. There will be exhibits of the industrial and agricultural progress of Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa, and the farmers and merchants are manifesting much interest in the project. The fair will continue one week and it is expected that there will be more than 40,000 visitors in the city. It is the purpose of the promoters to make it a fixture and if push and energy count for anything there is no reason why it should not be made a success. The fair association has been incorporated with a capital of $50,000.

EXPLODE MINE UNDER PLATFORM

Twenty-Five Workmen Victims of the Most Dastardly Crime That Can Be Imagined--An Awful Carnage.

[Special by Scripps-McLain.]
Victor, Colo., June 6.—Three hundred pounds of dynamite placed by unknown assassins under the depot of the Florence and Cripple Creek railway station, exploded at two this morning while twenty-five miners employed at the Findlay mine located on Bull Hill were standing on the platform. It instantly killed fifteen and fatally injuring eight and ten others were hurt.

By Electricity
The mine was discharged by electricity. The wire was traced to a shaft house in the Demolico mine where the fiend used a piece of a chair leg to pull the wire. As soon as the news was received here a company of militia was ordered out and a relief train sent from Cripple Creek. The scene about the depot is horrible, portions of human remains being scattered all over the right of way of the railroad. In a twenty foot hole made by the explosion are several skulls arms legs and hands.

All Demolished
Every object within fifty feet is bespattered with blood and the buildings demolished. An entire train was hurled into the air. A partial list of the dead is: Gus Augustine, 33; Arthur Matheson, 35; Henry J. Haug, 36; McLain, shift boss; Charles E. Barber; and Herbert McCoy died at the hospital, and eight men are lying in the hospitals fatally injured.

Foul Plot
The explosion is no doubt the result of a deep laid plot. Evidently they did not intend to kill any of the train crew. The mine exploded as the train whistled on nearing the station. The whistle was the death signal. The terrific explosion shook the mountain as if rocked by an earthquake.

The Owners
Findlay mine is controlled by A. E. Carleton, president of the First National bank; he is also a prominent official in the Cripple Creek Mine Owners' association and Citizens' Alliance. He has been a stubborn enemy of union labor and his mine was the first to resume work with non-union miners after the strike was declared off last August.

Big Reward
A reward of fifty thousand dollars is offered for the apprehension of the murderers. Blood hounds are on the trail. Vigilance committees are being formed. The governor is asked for troops. If they are not forthcoming the president will be appealed to. It is believed the dead will reach eighteen.

DISMEMBERED BODY
IN TENNESSEE RIVERFisherman Makes Ghastly Catch Near Knoxville, and Coroner Is Puzzled as a Result.

Knoxville, Tenn., June 6.—The decomposed, dismembered body of a woman was taken from the Tennessee river near this city, parts of the body having been found in three different places.

While Isaac Johnson, a fisherman, was running a line in the river three miles above Knoxville he saw an abandoned skiff and a small pine box floating in the river. When he attempted to take the box from the water he found that it contained something heavy.

Turning it over in the water, he found a low sack nailed across the top and saw the thigh section of a human body drop to the water. Summoning help, the party took the box to the shore.

It contained the right leg of a woman's body, which had been cut off at the knee, the left foot and ankle, breast bone and a part of the back, with some flesh and skin. Not far away, on the edge of an island, were later found a forearm and hand.

The coroner and police were summoned and took the testimony of the man who had found the pieces of the body. Later a telephone message announced that the head of a human body had been found floating in the river at a point two and a half miles below where the other sections of the body had been found.

Coroner Hackney is puzzled for a solution of the mystery, as he is not satisfied that the head belongs to the body, the head being much more decomposed.

BROKEN BEAM WRECKS TROLLEY

Woman Is Killed and Many are Hurt at Burlington.

Burlington, Iowa, June 6.—By the breaking of a brake beam on an open trolley car while descending the steep Valley street incline, the car was precipitated down the hill, crashing into a shade tree and wrecking it completely. Fifty passengers were on the car. They jumped in all directions as the car rushed down the hill, many of them receiving broken arms and badly cut faces. Mrs. Joseph Keelin was killed by having her head crushed; Mrs. Joseph Carlson had both arms and legs broken; Ora J. Gould, a publisher, shoulder broken; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Taeger, arms broken; E. M. Holtey, head and face crushed; William Kothkamp, foreman of Band Lumber Company, head badly cut. A dozen others suffered serious cuts and bruises.

Profited Handsomely.

It is costing the railroads a pretty penny to lay their sidetracks to the beet sugar factory site. Adolph Bergmeyer recently purchased a two-acre tract of land near the old Paul homestead for $197. Both the North Western and the St. Paul have crossed his property, using about a quarter of an acre in all, and paying respectively $200 and $125 for the privilege. It is said that Mr. Bergmeyer wanted $800 in the first place. For crossing the low land owned by M. G. Jeffers the North-Western is said to have paid $600. Lawrence Cronin whose twenty-acre tract was crossed is also said to have received a large sum. The property has been increased in value in most instances by the laying of the track.

at the St. Paul Shops, Lost
His Foot.

This afternoon about 1:45 Russell's ambulance was called to the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul roundhouse to convey Emmett Jordan, a young man employed as wiper there, to the Palmer Memorial hospital. In some unknown manner Mr. Jordan was following an engine out of the house to the turn table, and attempted to get on a back truck as the engine was in motion. He slipped and missed his footing and his left foot became entangled with the brake in such a manner as to completely crush his hip. The injured man was taken to the Palmer Memorial hospital where medical assistance was summoned. It is feared that the unfortunate young man will lose his foot.

THE SPIRIT IS ONLY REALITY

MATTER AND ITS DISCORDS ARE TEMPORAL FALSITIES

SAYS MRS. SUE HARPER MIMS

Who Delivered a Lecture on Christian Science Doctrines at Myers Theater Yesterday Afternoon.

A large audience which included over one hundred visitors from Beloit listened with absorbing interest to the lecture on Christian Science delivered at the Myers theatre yesterday afternoon. The stage had been beautifully decorated with white roses and palms, presenting a scene at once restful to the eye and inviting deep thought and contemplation of the message that was to be delivered. Marshall Richardson introduced the speaker, Mrs. Sue Harper Mims of Atlanta, Georgia. He alluded in his remarks to the remarkable part that woman had come to play in almost every phase of the world's activity. If she had not yet designed a battleship, much greater things had been accomplished. It was a humble Polish woman who had discovered that new element, radium, which had revolutionized all scientific concepts. Another, a New England woman, had discovered a new element in religion which had done even more than this. The courage and powers which man once arrogated to himself were no longer his exclusive possessions. As a type of splendid American womanhood and as one of the leaders in the vanguard of modern thought and progress he introduced the speaker of the afternoon and her subject: "Man's Spiritual Dominion Through Scientific Christianity—the Religion of the Future."

Supremacy of the Good
Mrs. Mims proved to be a very pleasing and impressive speaker. She devoted her address to an exposition of and argument for the fundamental doctrines of Christian Science. She had come to tell her hearers of no new God but of the God of the orthodox Christianity, defined as infinite, omniscient spirit—the Supreme Good. That was the only force to be accepted. Other forces were but expressions of the human will, and hence not real forces. Real, alone, was that changeless law of the Good which Jesus revealed as spirit, before which sin, disease, temper, and storm, time and space vanished. Forty years ago Mrs. Eddy had prophesied the wireless telegraph which she said that spirit was omnipresent and needed material expression. Matter and spirit were ever at war. Under the law of corruption even the stars decay. No perfect expression of spirit through matter was therefore to be expected. Other systems of philosophy, recognizing these non-real forces, had been compelled to relinquish the immortality of man. The speaker said in part:

Search of Centuries
"The aspiration to know and understand the ways of God to men has inspired the long search and questioning of the centuries. The attempt to reconcile the mystery of evil with the basis of an all-wise, omniscient, omnipotent and benevolent Creator has been the stimulus of the most systematic of speculative thought throughout history of man. This theoretical mind has been the same since the days, and before, when Socrates talked of the immortality of the soul, and Plato dreamed of a true republic, while the Alexandrian schools teemed with magnificent hypotheses.

Not Remote Abstraction
"Nineteen hundred years ago, in the midst of the tumultuous thought of that day, there appeared a simple, majestic figure, Jesus of Nazareth. He spoke as never a man spoke, and he proved the beneficent ways of God to man, proved this omnipotent, infinite God to be forever the destroyer of evil and all its varied manifestations. It was as if He said, 'God is not a remote abstraction nor a far-away ruler and mighty king, but a living presence, a living truth, a divine environment, in which we live and move and have our being; the one source from whence cometh every good and perfect gift.'

"God is the Mind, Intelligence, substance that includes all, that feeds, clothes, sustains and governs man, redeeming him from the materialistic law of sin and death, by the demonstration of the actual spiritual law of life and harmony. He said, even the birds and lilacs teach you lessons of the ineffable love and tenderness of this Father-Mother God; for the same intelligence that enables a growing vine to rend a rock, in its travail of expression, is the same power that enabled Jesus to rend the curtain of death, in the travail of his expression of His indestructible, immortal individuality.

Spiritual Insight Alone
"Spiritual insight alone can show us the real, while we look not at the things that are seen but on the things that are not seen which are eternal. Matter and its discords are temporal falsities. Truth and what it includes, is eternal and perfect, and harmonious. Physics is rapidly approaching this idealism, and a molecule of matter is now called 'a point of force.' That this faith, that is the evidence of things not seen is the very basis of Christianity, is beyond question to the enlightened and unbiased Christian thought.

Quest Not for Ultimate
"It is to this unspeakable glory that Jesus' idealism calls us: not through death, for death is not a transforming power; but through Spirit, and wisdom and understanding. We should not be discouraged because this process seems slow, but rejoice that we have at last learned to take even the infantile steps in this direction, for we are only babes on the shore of infinite, divine possibilities. Our work at this hour is to make our little we know practical, not for getting the sublime ultimate. The process is so simple that the little children learn it easily, and apply it practically every day. And as we become childlike in giving up our educated opinions, and are willing to sit at the feet of Christ, we, too, learn it. Mrs. Eddy expresses it so concisely in her words:

"What is the cardinal difference in my metaphysical system? This, that by knowing the unreality of disease, sin and death, you demonstrate the allness of God. The reality of these so-called existences, I deny because they are not found in God, and this system is based on God as the sole cause."

The Discoverer
"Fifty years ago there was not a Christian Scientist on earth; there were beautiful spiritual minded, aspiring Christians seeking praying for more light, and because of this, the light has come.
"Less than forty years ago, in sublime spiritual isolation, there stood one woman, Mary Baker Eddy, on the mountain top of ethereal vision, 'kissed by the rising sun of righteousness with healing on its beams.' Solitary as the great explorer, standing on a lonely peak in Darien's two unknown continents, and two vast oceans on either side, Mrs. Eddy saw on one side the vast sea of human thoughts, swelling and raging in tumultuous struggle, and on the other side, the peaceful Pacific ocean of spiritual understanding and love; back of her the enforced, self-inflicted sorrow and slavery of men, through human illusions, and before her the land of spiritual Canaan, where man, free and fearless in his true selfhood, may 'transparently walk the earth like some holy thing.' She saw the awful unreality of finite senses, including evil, disease and death, that deceive the whole world; and she also saw, the omnipotence and reality of God, good and the infinite possibilities of man, endowed with a true knowledge of God. She discovered anew the spiritual laws of life and harmony, and their application to human needs, as Jesus taught and proved. She named the discovery 'Christian Science,' because it deals with eternal laws that always were and are, and will be, the laws of God and the universe. When the veil of prejudice that blinds the world of sense to its great spiritual leaders is removed, her life will shine out in a radiant light that will command the admiration of the world, and the ages will call her blessed."

For Purity and Law
"Christian Science is in full and ready sympathy with every advancement towards purity, benevolence, law and order. It teaches that the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount furnish the solution of every human problem. Its Alpha and Omega is love, that God is love, infinite and ever present, that all sects, nations and races are embraced in that mind that is love. That there is one Father, Mother, God; one family.

WOULD KILL PEST IN LEGAL MANNER

Mosquito Is To Be Driven Out of Country by Enactment of Laws.

Janesville people who failed to appreciate the swarms of flies and mosquitoes last week will be glad to know that the government at Washington is being urged by law makers and scientists to make an official war on such pests. Extermination of the disease-carrying mosquito by the united efforts of state organizations and the legislature was made the topic of the conference of the state and provincial board of health representatives, which has just come to a close. Resolutions calling for legislative assistance in dealing with the mosquito pest were adopted. These resolutions declare that:

"It has been established that the diseases of yellow fever and malaria are transmissible by mosquitoes of certain species, and that it is the duty of the state boards of health to obtain such legislation and appropriations as may be necessary to insure drainage of swamp lands and to treat the surface shallow pools and ponds with such substances as are recognized as being destructive to the life of all species.

During the discussion it was contended that with the elimination of mosquito breeding conditions there will be vastly less loss of life during the construction of the Panama canal than there ever has been in the construction of the works.

CHANCES IN FAVOR OF MILTON ROUTE

For the Southern Wisconsin Interurban Line to Madison—Survey Made Via Indian Ford.

Civil Engineer H. H. Jackson and his men have been carrying on the survey for the Southern Wisconsin Interurban Ry. line to Madison through Milton and Milton Junction during the past few days. The survey by the Indian Ford and Edgerton route has been completed as far as Alblon and the question of which of the two routes is to be accepted is now up for decision. A committee of business men from Milton and Milton Junction conferred with the promoters of the line last week. It is understood that the Milton route would require less grading than the other and this will have considerable bearing on the decision.

FARMERS HOPEFUL OF GOOD HARVEST

Indications Point to an Excellent Crop, Despite the Late Spring.

Rock county farmers have every reason to be hopeful of a good harvest this year. Indications are that there will be a good crop if weather continues favorable. Although the spring has been somewhat backward, small grains and hay are in excellent condition and there is every reason to look for a heavy crop. Except in low places where water drowned out the young plants grains and grass are growing well and are well rooted. Early corn and potatoes will be lacking to a great extent. At this time farmers are still engaged in planting. For corn, much depends upon the months of July and August. If the weather is hot at that time, the frost does not come too early in September, corn may be an excellent crop. It is not too late to plant corn now, except the early varieties. Fruit trees were well blossomed this year and there is every reason to expect good yields, although one can never tell what may occur to blight the crop. While it is too early to predict what the harvest will be, there is nothing at the present time to indicate that the farmer will not do well in almost every line this year.

SPOONER STORY NAILED AS LIE

Wisconsin's Senator Is Not Against Roosevelt's Wishes Regarding Chairmanship.

Reports have recently been published to the effect that party leaders are advising that the manager of the next campaign be selected without regard to the wishes of the president. They are based upon dissatisfaction known to exist over the selection of George H. Cortelyou as chairman of the republican national committee. No one denies that many prominent republicans question the wisdom of making Mr. Cortelyou the campaign manager this year, but that any of them have advised that the president's wishes should be ignored is so at variance with the policy and discipline of the party that it will attract little attention anywhere. A statement alleged to have been made by Senator Spooner is cited as circumstantial evidence that the president will not be permitted to have his way when the national committee comes to select a new chairman. The senator is quoted as saying during his recent visit here: "I understand that the president intends to have Cortelyou run the campaign. Just wait now and see what will happen."

This has "fake" stamped all over it. There is probably no more foundation for it than there is for any of the statements upon which the report that the president will be ignored is built. No man in the party is more concerned about the outcome of the November elections than is Theodore Roosevelt. Party tradition and the custom of many years dictate that the candidate shall name his own manager, and it is not believed that any exception will be made to this rule in the year 1904. Senator Spooner said while at Washington that he had not talked with President Roosevelt about Mr. Cortelyou and the chairmanship.

"The Commission on Accredited Schools" appointed by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools at a meeting held in Chicago, March 25th, 1904, reported as a result of careful inspection and examination of causes of study and equipment, a select list of high schools of each of the North Central states whose graduates are accredited at any of the colleges or universities of the association.

Following is the entire list of Wisconsin high schools on this university accredited list: Ashland, Chippewa Falls, Eau Claire, Ft. Atkinson, Milwaukee, Oshkosh, Racine, Ryan, Appleton, Janesville, Kenosha, La-

BASE BALL OF ANOTHER CENTURY

Old Time Players Used Different Methods from the Present Day Athletes.

The old baseball player of a third of a century ago, when he contrasts the breezy game of those times with the refined sport of today, finds much to admire and commend.

Curved pitching, close play behind the bat, team work and a "dead" ball have revolutionized the game. With the incoming of mask, pad and glove the ancient aroma of arica has all but passed away.

Throwing is more accurate, trick plays including the picturesque but often effective "bunt," far more highly developed, and if the long hit is more uncommon, it is more dramatic when it comes.

In this higher evolution of baseball there appears but the general fault to be expressed in the seeming paradox that between closely matched nines the greater the science the less sure the result.

The refinement that reduces scores ipso facto throws stronger accent on the single passed ball, the bad throw and the lucky base hit that wins or loses a match.

Given two teams essentially even in batteries, field play and hitting, and we find that the "luck" factor grows as science deepens.

With baseball thus, so to speak, sublimated, it follows that finer details of play wax in importance.

A single strike of quick judgment in baseball play may, for example, offset what might have been the winning "scratch" base hit of opponents, and the nine which can crystallize into a habit this attention to nice points must, in the end, win against teams equal or even somewhat superior in general play.

The matter is of the greater interest because its flaws and their correction fall into the limbo of what we may call mental as distinguished from executive baseball.

We pardon the occasional flaw of execution—the mislaid fly, the fumbled grounder, the wild throw. Justly is the baseball critic less merciful to the errors of headwork and of judgment.

The concentration of modern baseball in work of the pitcher is probably incalculable, but the size of our curable evil, the "base on balls," is not fully grasped.

Several years ago the writer kept at Yale field a special score for twelve consecutive games to measure in exact terms the value of this still obstinate "base on balls" factor.

The figures showed for both sides 180 runs and 134 bases on balls. Of the 180 runs 49 runs, or about 26 per cent., were the direct result of bases on balls.

How many a bad lining opens with the base on balls, and how many games have been won by it negatively can be recalled by the shortest baseball memory; nor does the evil seem to have been much abated by the new form of the home plate, which, when adopted, was supposed to favor the pitcher.

When the pitcher learns that his four balls are to be treated generally as capital and not as surplus, and judges his "trick" balls only after securing one or two strikes with a margin or at least two balls left, we shall see fewer baseball games presented by loose pitching as a kind of gift to opponents.—Clarence Dunning in April Outing.

BROKE QUARANTINE AND WAS ARRESTED

Ben Johnson, of Beloit, Failed to Head Instructions of Health Officer—Came to Janesville.

Health Officer W. H. Payne of Beloit has sworn out a warrant for Ben Johnson who resides at 739 Ellis street in the Line city, charging him with breaking a scarlet fever quarantine established at his home on the 23rd of May on account of the illness of his daughter with this disease. Complaints were made that Johnson recently had visited places in Beloit and Janesville and spent some time in this city. The man went when brought into court. He said that he had been given permission to leave by his family physician. The punishment for this offense is from $50 to $300 fine or from 20 to 100 days in jail. He was released on $300 bail.

SOME WEEDS FOR MEDICINAL USES

MAKING EXPERIMENTS AT THE PRESENT TIME.

GOVERNMENT INVESTIGATING

Has a Special Corps of Weed Inspectors Who Make Annual Government Reports.

Emerson said, "A weed is a plant whose use is unknown." Judging by the extent of the list of weeds that is to be found in the pharmacopoeia, his declaration gives promise of fulfillment without exception. The bureau of plant industry has been studying the importation of drugs into the United States and has concluded that much of the money spent abroad in this manner could be kept at home if the people were properly educated in the use of the many plants that grow wild over large sections of the country in such rank luxuriance as to necessitate in some states the appointment of weed commissioners to cope with their further spread, says a writer in the Philadelphia Record.

Miss Alice Hunkeler, one of the government's experts engaged in drug and medicinal plant investigations, has recently prepared a pamphlet entitled, "Weeds Used in Medicine," which is considered the most widely disseminated of any of the government's publications. It is not contended that any extraordinary profit can be gained from the collection of the roots, barks and leaves of medicinal weeds, but the necessary disposition of the weeds may be done with some little profit, if intelligently carried out, rather than at an absolute loss. The imported drugs are collected for the most part by the women and children of foreign countries, so that the return for labor will not be large. The marketing of drugs, herbs and barks can be done without great expense and without experience by submitting samples to drug and commission houses handling drug lists' supplies.

Burdock, Daniel and Others.
Burdock, which is also known variously as cockle button, cockle dock, beggar's buttons, burburr, stick button, hardy dock and hardy, has a wide range of habitat and is especially abundant in the eastern and central states along roadsides, in fields and waste places. This unsightly weed of the aster family, which is very prolific, one plant producing as many as 400,000 seeds, has a large taproot, about twelve inches long, which is used in blood and skin diseases, the fresh leaves also often being externally applied by the old-time housewife as a cooling poultice for swellings and ulcers.

The dandelion, while a native of Europe, has now become distributed over the entire civilized world. The young leaves are used to some extent as a salad, while the thick, fleshy taproot is often used as a tonic in diseases of the liver and in dyspepsia. This weed is known under many different local names, such as blow-bell, cantowyer, dandelion dock, forget-me-not, horse-gowan, Irish daisy, yellow gowan, one o'clock, etc.

Several species of the dock possess medicinal value furnishing a root valued for purifying the blood and as a remedy in skin diseases. The species whose roots are collected for this purpose are the yellow dock, known also as the curled dock, narrow dock, and sour dock; the broad-leaved dock, known as bitter dock; common dock, blunt-leaved dock and butter dock, and the yellow-rooted water dock.

Couch grass has a dozen different popular designations, common among which are dog grass, quick grass, quack grass, quitch grass, quitch grass, wheat grass, Chandler's grass, creeping wheat grass, devil's grass, durga grass, Duffee grass, Dutch grass, Fin's grass, and quack grass. This troublesome weed, abounding in the New England and central states, possesses a root which creeps along under the surface, setting forth new grass stems and making it most difficult to destroy or eradicate. As the only way to accomplish this successfully is to plow up the roots, they can be collected and repaired for the drug market as "tritican," under which name they bring from 3 to 7 cents per pound. The fluid extract prepared from these roots is used in kidney and bladder trouble.

Poisonous But Valuable.
Poke weed, known perhaps better as the inkberry, American nightshade and red-weed, is characterized by reddish-purple stems, rich green foliage and dark purple berries. Both the leaves and roots are poisonous, but they have a use as alternatives, preparations made from them being used in treating various diseases of the skin and blood and in certain cases in relieving pain and allaying inflammation.

The fox-glove, originally introduced as an ornamental garden plant, has overrun the country and become a pest, especially in Oregon, Washington and West Virginia. This plant has probably more fanciful names than any other common weed, being known as thimble, fairy cap, fairy fingers, fairy bells, dog's finger, lady's glove, popdock, popdock, lion's mouth, rabbit's flower, cottagers, Scotch mercury and many others. Its leaves furnish distillate, a powerful heart stimulant, which is also a poison and which should only be used upon advice of a physician.

The mullein, sometimes reaching a height of seven feet, that figures so extensively in the field life of the farmer boy, contains in the leaves a principle that is useful in coughs, croup and for relieving pain and inflammation.

The lobelia, known as Indian tobacco, wild tobacco, asthma weed, ginseng, poke-weed and eyebright, contains a poisonous principle in its leaves and flowers, but these nevertheless yield a tincture that is valuable as an expectorant, and which also affects the nervous system.

Tansy, ginger plant, scented fern, etc., which is another plant, escaped from cultivation, and found as a weed along the wayside, has a stimulant and tonic properties, but is poisonous, and has been known to produce fatal results.

sealy grindella for the waste land in this section of the country. Both of these plants are useful in asthma and similar affections and are used externally in cases of ivy poisoning.

Boneset, which grows so abundantly in the moist alluvial in the east, is a valuable remedy for fever and ague, from which it derives its popular designation of ague-weed, feverwort, vegetable anodyne, sweating plant, etc. It is also used in colic, dyspepsia, jaundice and as a tonic.

Stimulants and Tonics.
Catnip or field mint, which furnishes a mild stimulant and tonic; horehound, so well known as a remedy for colds, Jamestown or Jinsown weed, with its malodorous leaves and flowers, furnishing an asthmatic cure (the leaves and flowers being poulticed and occasionally poison); children's American wormwood or Mexican tea, Spanish tea, Jerusalem tea, Jinsown tea, ambrosia, an anesthetic, are other American weeds which grow extensively over many states, and the leaves, roots and flowers of which are annually imported to the extent of hundreds of thousands of pounds. Black mustard, white mustard, poison hemlock, blessed thistle and yarrow complete the list of common weeds which have been discovered to possess medicinal properties, and which are commonly used in patent medicine and on physicians' prescriptions.

AN ACCIDENT ON INTERURBAN LINE

D. V. Morrison Was Struck by Northbound Car Four Miles South of City Saturday Night.

Traffic on the Interurban line was delayed to some extent Saturday evening by an accident. In signaling a car four miles south of Janesville D. V. Morrison of 120 Park street stood too near the tracks and was struck and hurled several feet. He was picked up and brought to the city and Russell's ambulance conveyed him to the Palmer hospital. Dr. Pembler and Elford found that he had sustained a fractured arm and two bad scalp wounds. He is getting along as well as could be expected.

THE INSIDE INN AT ST. LOUIS.

An Ideal Place for Visitors Right Inside the Grounds—No Tiresome Journeys to or From the City—No Crowding—No Discomfort—Time and Money Saved.

No matter who you are or what you are; no matter if your purse be slender or otherwise, if you wish to see the World's Fair at St. Louis and enjoy every moment of your time, the best place to stay—indeed, the only place to stay—is The Inside Inn.

The building of this splendid hostelry has marked a new departure in the world's fair accommodations, it being the first time that the administration of any exposition has taken the question of lodging and creature comforts of its visitors under its personal supervision. This the World's Fair management has done. The Inside Inn has been built with the same lavish hand that has marked all other constructions at St. Louis. It is three stories high, 400 feet wide, 800 feet long, contains 2,257 bedrooms and can seat 2,500 people in its dining-room at one sitting.

Every modern convenience obtainable has been installed and the comforts thus afforded enable visitors to enjoy the sights of the Exposition whenever they please and then go to their rooms for a rest without a long, tiresome journey and from their lodgings. A great saving in time and money is consequently effected, as sight-seeing can be begun directly after breakfast and continued into the night without any expensiveness run for the "last car." No admission fee other than the first is required from those guests who remain within the precincts of the Fair at The Inside Inn.

The Inside Inn is run on both the European and American plans and the rates are exceedingly moderate, ranging from $1.50 to $5.50 European, and from $3.00 to $7.00 American, including daily admission in both cases. The enormous capacity of The Inside Inn assures first-class accommodations for all—no matter when or in what numbers they come—but those who prefer to secure their rooms in advance may make reservations now for any period up to December 1st. A post card addressed to The Inside Inn, Administration Bldg., World's Fair Grounds, St. Louis, will bring you an interesting booklet, giving full details and plans.

BOY INCENDIARY SEEKS FAME

Lad Confesses He Started Fire So Papers Could Print His Picture. Boston, Mass., June 6.—An overpowering desire to have his picture in the newspapers prompted 8-year-old Willie Kelley of Dedham to start a fire endangering $20,000 worth of property and causing almost that much loss. The fire destroyed the lumber yards of the Curtis & Pope company and three dwellings.

"Why did you start the fire?" asked one of the officers of the village.

"Either tired of romancing or caught off his guard, Willie answered promptly: 'So's I could get my picture in the papers.'"

Barbers Enforce Sunday Law. Cincinnati, O., June 6.—A score of barbers were arrested here for violating the Sunday law. The union voted to close the shops on Sunday.

Most of the proprietors objected and many of them were arrested on warrants sworn out by the employees.

Southern Pacific Strike. San Francisco, Cal., June 6.—Five hundred freight handlers of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company have gone on strike. They demand an increase of pay and a reduction of the working day to nine hours.

PRODUCER AND CONSUMER.

Several lines of business have been revolutionized during the past decade, not only by the introduction of new and improved machinery, but by a persistent effort, on the part of producers to reach consumers without the aid of middle men.

The shoemaker of 20 years ago is practically unknown today, and the harness maker is no longer in great demand. These industries, with many others, have been absorbed by the manufacturer, who today is in close touch with the consumer.

The department stores, in towns as well as cities, adopt the same policy, and with a great variety of goods attempt to supply the wants of all classes of buyers.

A new departure has been inaugurated in England by the railroads, in the interest of farmers. "The American Agriculturalist" thus describes the plan, which might be copied to advantage in this country:

"To get into business relation with the consumers is the fond dream of the enterprising farmer everywhere. In this country the postal service offers no facilities, while the express companies are of the nature of mutually arranged monopolies affording no encouragement of any kind to small shipments of produce. One of the English railroads has just taken up the problem in a way that deserves attention. First, the company supplies town and city consumers with a list of the producers along its line of railway, so that those who wish to have their vegetables, fruit and dairy produce fresh from the farm the same day that it is gathered or made, will know where to send their orders. The producers can, if they wish, buy suitable shipping boxes of the railroad. The company takes a package weighing not over twenty-four pounds, and transports it 50 miles for 12 cents and longer distances at a proportionate rate. "The position of a gardener is like that of any man who puts all his eggs in one basket; it must be a good basket and he must watch it closely. The same is true of the commercial fruit grower, the hop specialist, the florist, the dairyman, or the poultry farmer. Special lines of production require more and promises more. Men of more than ordinary business ability find better scope for their talent by producing special crops such as those of the gardener. Others who believe their training aptitude and circumstances do not warrant them to specialize, may lead safe, happy and prosperous lives as all-around farmers. Not so many years ago nearly all farms in the same climate yielded similar crops and products. Now the variety is great, and it would seem that any man could find his place in an occupation with such room for adaptation to personal fitness and choice.

WHO WERE THE BOLTERS?

An effort will be made, before the republican national committee, to prove that the bolters from the republican party at Madison were the governor's supporters, Senators Spooner and Quarles, Congressman Baibcock and Judge Baensch are the four delegates-at-large elected at the republican convention held in the opera house.

These gentlemen have prepared an exhaustive statement of the situation which is now in the hands of the national committee.

It sets forth the fact, which no one disputes, that the state central committee called a meeting of the several congressional delegations to be held in Madison on the morning of May 18, for the purpose of electing members of the new state central committee.

It is further stated, which is also true, that when these meetings were held, not a La Follette delegate put in an appearance in districts where the governor's forces were in the minority. In the first district the counties of Rock, Walworth and Kenosha answered to roll call, while Racine, Green and La Fayette were without representation.

The same conditions prevailed in half a dozen other districts in the state, the object being to ignore the rights of congressional districts, and permit the La Follette convention to name all the members of the new state central committee.

The plan was carried out in defiance of all law and precedent, and the only bolters were the men who refused to attend the congressional caucuses. Senator Spooner and his colleagues make this claim, and it will have weight with the national committee.

A cable over the Andes. A cableway, which, it is said, will be the longest in the world and will have the highest engine station yet existing, is to be installed on the Argentine side of the Andes by Adolf Bleichert & Co., of Leipzig, says the American Inventor. This cableway will extend from Chillico station, on the Argentine Northern Railroad—which is 3,420 feet above sea-level—for a distance of twenty-two miles, to a point 14,933 feet above sea-level, or 1,500 feet higher than the summit of the Jungfrau. It will cross a chain of rocks and precipices, spanning in some places, chasms nearly 300 feet wide and 600 feet deep, while at other points it will be supported by iron towers 130 feet high. All of the material will have to be taken to its destination on the backs of mules. The length of the cable rope will be eighty-seven miles. The line is intended to have a carrying capacity of forty-four tons of ore per hour, a carload of 1,100 pounds being dispatched every forty-five seconds.

The paper mill strike, which went into effect last Saturday night, has a serious outlook and may involve other industries through sympathy. Public sentiment is against the strikers in this instance, and the men have made a mistake.

The state of Illinois nominated the right man for governor, after a long drawn out fight, and there will be no split in the party. Chicago succeeded, but she deserved defeat and is entitled to no credit with two candidates in the field to the last.

The Mystic Workers will take possession of the city tomorrow. Some 700 delegates will be present, representing almost every state in the union. The order is fraternal and very popular.

PRESS COMMENT

Racine Journal: It is in the air. The tattle boy and the tattle man and woman must go. It is beginning in the right place, in the schools.

Madison Journal: At present Mr. Bryan seems to be a pitch plaster laid down on the spine of the democratic mule.

Oshkosh Northwestern: Governor La Follette is willing to arbitrate the question, provided, of course, there is a plain understanding that he is not to be displaced on matter what happens.

Green Bay Gazette: Toy pistols and cannon crackers have been barred by the authorities of Milwaukee this year. This is a step in the right direction that all cities will be obliged to take before many years.

El Paso Herald: One man in Menard, Missouri, has written 40,000 words on a postal card and every postmaster in the state is hoping that it comes her way, even if she loses a day over it.

Indianapolis Journal: Russian army surgeons praise the Japanese bullets, because they inflict such clean, smooth wounds. And so many of them, too, which gives the surgeons excellent practice.

Hudson Star-Times: Wisconsin has had enough of sham and pyrotechnics. Now let her have a reign of everyday business rule. This Hon. Samuel A. Cook and his colleagues will guarantee. Down with La Folletteism. Up with a reign of common sense.

Waukesha Freeman: The day of faith in the honesty of purpose of political committees in Wisconsin seems to have temporarily passed, and the time has come for a radical change in the system of conducting party affairs. The primary system can be most readily reached and it would appear to be the part of wisdom to give it a trial.

Milwaukee News: In view of the fact that a majority of the republican millionaires are devoted to his candidacy, it is suspected that Governor La Follette will find it somewhat difficult to convince the "fair-minded" democrats that he is bleeding at every pore for the down-trodden and oppressed victims of plutocracy.

Cincinnati Commercial Tribune: The amicable relations between the two sovereignties of Ohio and Kentucky have been recently welded with an enduring world. The supreme court of Ohio has decided that a man may exclude his mother-in-law from his domicile, and Judge Cantrell, of Kentucky, has held that the testimony of a mother-in-law is not sufficient to warrant the granting of a divorce. Courts do hit it off sometimes.

Seranton Tribune: The Berlin story that wives of Russian conscripts threw themselves on the rails before the train that was to take their husbands to the war and were run over would sound like what the world knows so clearly of Russian cruelty. The use of such men as soldiers will not make an enthusiastic army.

Everybody's Magazine: Even this early, before politics reaches a high temperature and the acute stage, shall not these things be remembered?

1. The country is "ruined" at least every four years.

2. Talk is the "most momentous crisis" in the affairs of the republic that has been on exhibition since the last time. (We know no man who has lived through sixteen crises, and still has a fair appetite.)

3. If Roosevelt is elected, "our institutions will suffer a shock from which they may never recover."

4. If Parker or any other democrat is elected, the fair fabric of our liberties will have something or other happen to it that can't be repaired until the republicans "come up on top" again.

5. Individually, neither democrats nor republicans are dangerous fellows. Collectively, each side must "view" the other "with alarm."

6. What office do you want?

7. While the country is certain to be "ruined" one way or the other, early in November, even the losers will take their usual interest in the football games of that month, and forget slaughter on their Thanksgiving turkey.

WHAT OTHERS SAY ABOUT US.

The words of commendation on the Best Sugar Special from around the state are gratifying to the publishers, as they come from men who appreciate the work involved.

The Daily Gazette issued a thirty-eight page "Sugar Beet" edition Tuesday afternoon, giving an illustrated write-up of the new beet sugar industry and the city generally. The publication is a credit both to the Gazette and Janesville.—Janesville Independent.

The Janesville Daily Gazette Beet Sugar Special of 36 pages, issued on Tuesday, is a very creditable piece of newspaper enterprise, reflecting a spirit of co-operation on the part of the business interests of the county that any citizen of the county may well feel proud of. Not only is the best sugar industry exploited in detail, but the general interests of the city and county are treated in an entertaining manner. The edition is a good one to preserve.—Wisconsin Tobacco Reporter.

The Janesville Gazette publishes a thirty-six page edition which it calls its "Beet Sugar Special Number," in honor of the establishment in that city of a large beet sugar plant. The entire edition seems to have been prepared with much care and labor, and it contains a large amount of very interesting information regarding the sugar beet industry and other occupations which are especially important in that section. Copious illustrations are included, and on the whole the edition reflects credit to the enterprising management of The Gazette.—Oshkosh Northwestern.

The Janesville Gazette has just issued a very good beet sugar edition of 36 pages, containing complete accounts of the establishment of the new beet sugar industry at Janesville and of the development of the older tobacco industry, with illustrations of the principal buildings and factories of Janesville. The Gazette is a credit to Janesville every day in the year. It is as good a paper as is published in Wisconsin, in a city of its size, and its new special edition, showing more than ordinary enterprise and liberality of expenditure, is worth being proud of.—La Crosse Leader and Press.

FINE EDITION.

Janesville Gazette Has Beet Sugar Issue for New Factory.

The Janesville Daily Gazette issued a commercial edition Tuesday evening, the greater part of which was devoted to giving a history of the beet sugar industry and reciting facts in connection with the new plant to be erected there. The edition was well arranged and the illustrations used, showing the work of erecting the plant, gives a good idea of what the Beaver City is to have when the beet sugar plant is completed.—Rockford Morning Star.

A FINE "BEET SUGAR" EDITION. The Janesville Daily Gazette has issued a "Beet Sugar Special" edition of thirty-six pages. It is full of pictures, many of them of the new factory which is now under construction there. There are also a number of portraits of the officials of the company and some prominent citizens. The edition is a credit to any paper and an excellent advertisement for the town, which is necessarily a good one to support a news medium with the facilities and energy to get out a paper so pretentious.—Daily Northwestern, Belvidere.

The Janesville Daily Gazette has just issued a beet sugar special edition, which is a credit to the publishers and to the city of Janesville. The term "beet sugar special" is particularly appropriate, for the reason that Janesville has just made a ten strike by securing the Davidson beet sugar factory upon which Fond du Lac once cast longing glances. The description of the beet sugar plant, how it is to be built and operated, together with methods of beet culture and other matters pertaining to the beet sugar industry, are prominent features of the edition. And yet there are scores of other good features. The edition consists of thirty-six pages and they fairly teem with live business announcements and a choice array of readable matter. It is a history of modern Janesville, its citizens, its factories, business institutions, its schools and public enterprises. The edition represents a vast amount of work and shows that the Gazette plant is strictly up to date. The sugar beet special is a mirror in which the newer and greater Janesville is reflected. Its publishers are to be congratulated.—Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

Mr. A. L. Fisher, of Janesville, has furnished The Gazette a detailed statement of the approximate acreage yield of all the tobacco crops grown in this state for the past 25 years. His estimate gives the average yield at 1,277 pounds per acre and the average price to grower 7 cents. He also figures a clear profit to the farmers of Wisconsin in the past 25 years of $13,000,000. All this is published in a special edition devoted to the beet sugar crop calculated to urge growers to substitute sugar for tobacco. This showing, we imagine, will be a hard proposition for the recent converted beet sugar growers to go against. When the beet men are able to show an average gross income of over $100 per acre in a series of 25 years they must do better than the beet growing districts of the old world are able to do. Just keep these figures in mind the next few years to come, please, and watch out for results.—Edgerton Reporter.

Plano, Ill., June 3, 1904.

Editor Gazette, Janesville, Wis.
Dear Sir: Accept my sincere congratulations upon your magnificent issue of May 31. I recognize the great labor connected with a special presentation of the character. Such a paper is reflective of ability. The people of Rock county, ay, of the entire state, should consider that the Gazette has demonstrated not only a claim to personal honor, but has brought distinguished prominence to Janesville, and incidentally to the county and commonwealth.

I am desirous that the officers of our society should see the splendid paper. Will you kindly have a copy mailed to such address upon the enclosed list? I will call at the office on Monday next and pay you for the papers.

Sincerely,
J. R. Adams.

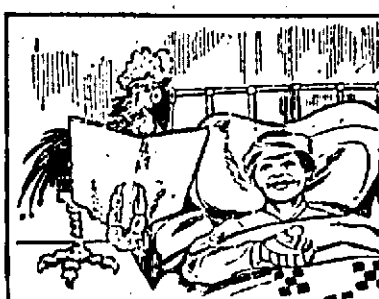

Mr. Adams is editor of the Mystic Workers.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Rooster's Advice

Tommy was in trouble. Tommy was also in bed, for his trouble was a broken wrist, brought on by hitting the ground too hard when he fell out of the apple tree. He was lying on his white pillow and dreaming of the good times the boys were having outside when the door opened, and to his great amusement in walked Jack, the old rooster. He was carrying a big book under his wing, and he came straight for the bed. Tommy felt like crying out with mingled fear and surprise as he saw Jack hop up on the table beside him, but his voice seemed to be stuck somewhere down in his stomach. Jack said nothing, but pulled a big pair of spectacles from beneath his other wing and opened a large book of notes. Tommy's eyes bulged.

"What are you going to do?" he asked timidly.
"Going to read you a few helpful rules for climbing trees. Some from my own valuable experience," said Jack, winking one eye and turning the pages with his claws. "If you will climb trees, you should know how to do it."
"This certainly is queer," thought Tommy.

TOMMY FELT LIKE CRYING.

Tommy. "The idea of a rooster teaching me!"

"Let us see," said the rooster, reading. "Birds of a feather flock"—no, that's not it.

"In cases of pip be sure to—"
"Ah! Here it is—Trees; flying up into."—

Jack looked so wise that Tommy couldn't keep back a smile.

"Rule 1.—Squat firmly on both claws."

"But I have no claws," interrupted Tommy.

"That's so," Jack assented. "We'll try again."

"Rule 2.—Then spread your wings out wide."

"But I have no wings," said Tommy.

"That's very true," said Jack, putting his head first on one side and then on the other. "I hadn't thought of that."

"Rule 3.—Then hold your tail out straight."

Here Tommy burst out laughing. "I never had any tail," he giggled.

Jack scratched his comb and thought for a moment. "I have it!" he cried.

"Rule 4.—Men and boys that have no claws, wings or tail should never climb trees."

"That meets your case, Tommy. Take my advice and don't," saying which he jumped to the floor and vanished.

Tommy rubbed his eyes.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Jews in Russia.

There are at present over 5,000,000 Jews in Russia. It is estimated that since the "Laws of May" more than 600,000 of them have been driven out of the villages and compelled to increase the overcrowding in the ghettos of the cities.

Physician Well Paid.

A lucky medical man is the physician who attends the empress of Russia. For each visit he receives a fee of $350.

HEAVY RAINFALL BRINGS FLOODS

LARGE BUILDING IS DAMAGED

Substantial Structure is Partially Wrecked, City Hall Suffers, While Houses, Barns and Sidewalks Are Carried Away by the Waters.

Deadwood, S. D., June 6.—As a result of the heavy rainfall throughout the Black Hills, which has continued for nearly a week, Deadwood, Deadwood and City creeks, three streams passing within the city limits, have left their banks, carrying away a number of houses, barns, sidewalks, and timber yards. The Waldo building, one of the most substantial in the city, was partially wrecked and the city hall badly damaged.

Two lives are known to have been lost, Matthew Bender, a young man of Central City, who was drowned in an attempt to save property, and Guy Shoudy, a farmer near Sturgis.

No trains have been able to enter or leave Deadwood since Friday on either the Burlington or Northwestern on account of washouts. The damage was greatest at Central City, nearly all the business portion of that town being washed away.

Mining Plant is Destroyed.

Half a mile of Northwestern track was swept away and the Columbus Mining company's plant nearly destroyed. A large number of houses at Gayville, a few miles distant, were carried away and the lower part of the town is under water.

From reports thus far of the floods it is believed the property loss in Deadwood and other Black Hills cities and to railroads will exceed half a million dollars. The water is still high, but it is believed the crest of the flood has been reached.

At Pluma, a mile of the electric suburban line was carried away, and the Burlington street and railway bridge wrecked.

Conditions at Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., June 6.—After ten days of almost continuous rain, since the sun shone over Kansas City Sunday. Most of the rivers are gradually falling, and everywhere flood conditions are improving. At Kansas City the Kaw began to fall and west of Manhattan it continues to go down. Southern Kansas rivers will go down more slowly. Railway schedules are still demoralized, but many more trains are moving.

New Danger at Arkansas City.

Arkansas City, Mo., June 6.—While the Arkansas river here has fallen, the Walnut presents a new danger to the manufacturing interests in the bottoms of Arkansas City. The latter stream is rising at the rate of half an inch an hour and now stands two feet higher than ever before recorded. Many families in the country near by, heretofore perfectly safe, were driven from their homes.

Deadly Sleeping Sickness. One peculiarity of the sleeping sickness, which is causing much havoc among the natives of Uganda, is that for a year or longer the victim may seem perfectly well, and often the disease makes itself first known by untimely patient, who, instead of sleeping, dies of exhaustion on the part of is very much awake.

Ever in Readiness.

You never have to ask trouble come and sit on your doorstep. It thinks of him and he is there.

SERMON DEALT WITH FACTS

REV. BARRINGTON PREACHED IN INTERESTING SERMON SUNDAY.

REAL MEANING OF THE DAY

Episcopal Divine Preaches Directly at His Congregation, in Plain Words.

The name, numerically, this day is called the first day of the week, secularly it is known as Sunday, and ecclesiastically as the Lord's day. The Jews were commanded to observe the seventh day to commemorate their deliverance from bondage (Deut. v. 15). When our Lord established His church His apostles preached Christ and the resurrection and their disciples continuing in their doctrine (Acts 11:22) observed the first day of the week (in addition to the seventh) in commemoration of the resurrection. "They came together on this day to break bread" and the day became known after the destruction of Jerusalem as the Lord's day.

Origin
The use of the Sabbath-day takes us back to the Creator as on the seventh day "God rested from all that He created and made." The origin of the day is due to man's necessity, for the Lord said: "The Sabbath was made for man" and it is scientifically demonstrable that it is one day in seven, not one in six, ten, twelve, or any other proportion that man's nature requires for rest and recuperation.

Use
We are pilgrims journeying to the eternal home and these are special days when, free as possible from care and turmoil, we open the windows of our souls to get a glimpse of the new Jerusalem. Or again for six days we are tempted to sell our souls to the fish and to the world but the Lord's Day calls us to remember and begs us not to sacrifice heaven to earth or eternity to time. Men, however in these days are apt to declare that they are the best judges of how they should use the day. They claim to be too tired to go to church, while they repeatedly ignore God's claim upon them and spend each Sunday in secular amusement. They justify themselves by saying that, there is so much rivalry and contention and they are forced to work so hard, they must have rest and change on Sunday. Three things, however, should govern our conduct on this day. First, because of man's need of the Sabbath ordained of God. Second, the none lived unto himself, other thoughts besides self-gratification should have weight with us. Third, that it is the Lord's day and the Almighty cannot be ignored with impunity, neither is He to be propitiated by minor and secondary considerations. God should be first, always first.

The Social Feature
The Jews had their Sabbath Day's journey. It was permitted but it was limited. If they wanted to join in a social gathering they could easily arrange to go double the distance without breaking the law. If this social feature was justifiable with the Jew of old, it is certainly justifiable today with the waste so destructive of vital force. Change and recreation are absolutely needed, but we should not forget the God who set apart the day, who gives us life and all its blessings, we should not ignore the fact that the Lord's Day commemorates the victory over death and the hope of eternal life. If it ever has been a day of worship, if the church taught from the first that we should receive the Sacrament on this day our duty should be plain. If there be a God, and we have a special duty that we owe to Him on this day, it is simply pigish to take it all to ourselves.

Limitations
To consecrate the day at the altar to come to the late morning service for prayer, praise and instructive (sermon) this is our first duty. Then if with our family (the wife needs rest and change as well as her Lord) we pass the rest of the day in quiet enjoyment, it would seem that highly refreshed and with clear conscience we would be following the better prepared to meet the demands of business. It would be impossible to determine any definite limitations upon such observance of the day. Some would still prefer the Puritan quiet, yet all should strive to avoid any enjoyment that would compel others to work. If, however, men must work on the Lord's day then legislative enactment should be sought which would compel every corporation to give their men one day in seven as a day of rest. It is the will of God; it is necessary for the welfare of mankind.

Lawlessness
The trouble is we are becoming more and more lawless; liberty is becoming license. We do not recognize the need of the reformation of our liberty by law, in order to insure the greatest good of the greatest number. We would make the individual mind supreme—this is intellectual and moral anarchy. Experience however teaches us that restraint is good for man. He needs to be told what he ought and what he ought not to do. Our rule of conduct is enshrined in the Decalogue, that code delivered to the Jews so long ago by the hand of Moses. Yet today nothing can be added to it, nothing in it can be eliminated. It is perfect.

To him that would know what to do, that he might inherit life, our Lord said: "Keep the commandments" and the fourth of these commandments is, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy."

CLINTON MAROONS BESTED THE LOCALS

Made Sixteen Runs to Janesville's Five in the Game at Yost's Park Yesterday.

A large crowd of baseball enthusiasts saw the Janesville team defeated by the Clinton Maroons to the tune of 16 to 5 at Yost's park yesterday afternoon. The Maroons made their runs during the early part of the game and were fairly well held down during the last few innings. Roy Palmer did good work for Janesville in the pitcher's box, though he was not in his best form. Catcher Wendt lined out three hits over the fence, making three home-runs for the locals.

NO PRECAUTION IS TO BE NEGLECTED

Possibilities of Fire at High School During Commencement Exercises Reduced to Minimum.

Every possible precaution against fire will be taken at the high school building during the commencement exercises this year. As there will probably be no necessity for operating the heating plant and none of the theses call for exposed light on the stage and only one for the use of electricity, the danger will be reduced to an almost negligible quantity. But it will not be neglected. There will be watchmen on every floor. The lantern used to throw pictures on the screen is equipped with an arc light and no inflammable material is allowed to be placed within fifteen or twenty feet of it. There is a wide stairway at the rear of the auditorium, another on the east side, and a fire-escape in the rear of the stage which leads to the second story. In addition to these safeguards there is the new fire-escape which is being placed on the west side. This is provided with a lower flight of steps which can be let down to the ground, similar to the one at the opera house, and a window in the auditorium is being converted into a door which will lead directly onto the platform of this new exit.

WERE WEDDED AT ST. MARY'S

Wallace E. Watts and Miss Nellie Donahue Made Husband and Wife.

A very pretty church wedding was solemnized this morning at St. Mary's church. The contracting parties were Mr. Wallace E. Watts and Miss Nellie E. Donahue. The bride was gown in a traveling suit of blue broadcloth and was attended by her sister, Miss Teresa Donahue. She is the daughter of Edward Donahue of the town of Harmony, while the groom conducts a barber shop on North Main street. After a brief wedding trip they will go to house-keeping in a cozy flat where they will be at home to their friends after June 25.

KEEP DOORS AND WINDOWS LOCKED

AMATEUR BURGLARS AT WORK AGAIN.

THREE HOUSES WERE ENTERED

Saturday and Sunday Nights, and Small Amounts of Money Taken—Fred Woodruff Gave Chase

Three burglaries were committed in Janesville between sunset Saturday and half-past nine o'clock last evening. In all cases the thief seemed to be in quest only of money and his bungling work indicated that he belonged to local talent. In two cases an entrance was effected through unlocked windows and in the third through a cellar door. In every instance circumstances seemed to show that the marauder had been doing the peeping Tom act and had seen where the pocket books were placed before he commenced operations.

Mrs. Venable's Home
Late Sunday night or early Sunday morning Mrs. Venable's home at 154 Washington street was entered through a window and a pocket book containing $3 in money taken. She had had her pocket-book in her hands early in the evening and the curtains in the room were not down. She heard nothing and did not discover that the window was open and the money missing until late in the forenoon.

Got Shooting Iron
Ross G. Merrill returned to his home at 125 Terrace street about one o'clock Sunday morning. About an hour later Mrs. Merrill heard someone moving in the sitting room down stairs and awakened her husband. He secured his shooting iron and went down to investigate. The thief heard him coming and fled, taking with him a pocket-book containing $5 that had been left in the hall. Entrance was effected by a window that had been left unlocked.

Woodruff Locked Out
When Mr. and Mrs. Fred Woodruff returned from church to their residence at 127 Pearl street at just past nine o'clock last evening they found that the front screen door had been hooked. As they passed along the side of the house to the rear door they saw through the windows a flash of light as of someone striking a match. A moment later a man dashed through the screen door in the rear. Mr. Woodruff followed in pursuit and followed the man a block until the latter dodged in between the Tyler residence and the one adjoining and disappeared from view. It was found upon examination that the burglar had gotten in through the cellar door and that a pocket-book containing seventy cents which had been left hanging on a gasjet in the rear portion of the house had been taken. The police officials were summoned by telephone and made a thorough search of the locality, but were unable to locate the man.

MENOMINEE HIGH CAPTURED MEET

Myers for Janesville Won the Quarter Mile and Scored the Only Points for Local Team.

Menominee high school captured first honors at the tenth annual athletic meet of the Wisconsin Intercollegiate Athletic association held in Madison Saturday, with a total of nineteen points. East Division, Milwaukee was second with eighteen points; West Division, third, with fifteen; South Division and Fond du Lac tied for fourth with eleven points. Dana, the gritty little Fond du Lac distance runner, was the star of the meet, winning first in the mile and half-mile runs. In both events, he broke the Wisconsin interscholastic records. His time for the mile run was 49.35, which breaks the record held by Brickett by thirteen seconds. His record in the 880 was 2:03.35, which lowers Mowry's record by two seconds. Harold Myers was the only lower city athlete who won points. He distanced Briggs of West Milwaukee who was scheduled to win the quarter mile, winning first place in 53.35 seconds. The 120-yard high hurdle record, held by Green of West Division, was broken by Barr of Lake Geneva in 16.35. This breaks the record by two-fifths of a second. The discus record was broken by Grass of Sturgeon Bay, who hurled the Grecian platter 109 feet 13 inches. The former mark was held by Adams of Marinette, whose throw measured 101 feet 8 inches. The relay race was won by Menominee, South Milwaukee was second and Fond du Lac third. The Janesville team failed to make a showing.

MEMORIAL DAY FOR WOODMEN

Members of the Order Assembled at Methodist Church Sunday Morning—Strong Sermon by Rev. Tippet.

The Modern Woodmen and Royal Neighbors were guests of the Central M. E. church yesterday morning. The Rev. Tippet occupied the pulpit and delivered a very practical sermon on "Service" founded on the incident of the Master washing the disciples' feet as recorded in one of the gospels. The speaker believed in the dignity of labor and demonstrated by forceful argument that the "servant is greater than his lord." He contended the service between employer and employee should be mutual and that when this principle was fully established that class distinction and labor disturbances would come to an end. The sermon was temperate, yet strong and convincing and seemed to be thoroughly appreciated.

In the afternoon the drill team of the order in full uniform, marched to the cemetery, according to custom, to place flowers on the graves of departed members. Brief exercises appropriate to the lodge's Memorial day were held.

MANY ATTENDED FUNERAL SERVICES

Of the Late Miss Madeline Koebelin Sunday Afternoon—Rev. Huey Officiated.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Miss Madeline Koebelin were held Sunday afternoon from the family residence, 290 South Main street. Rev. S. G. Huey, pastor of the Rock Prairie Presbyterian church, officiated. In his sermon Rev. Huey dwelt upon the sweetness, gentleness and faith of the deceased and emphasized the blessedness of those who die in the Lord. A large number were present at the services and followed the remains to their last resting place in Oak Hill cemetery.

There was a profusion of beautiful floral offerings which were in charge of the young ladies of Hort. Bailey & Co.'s store, of which the deceased was among the most honored employees. The pallbearers were John W. Boyes, Frank Gentile, Charles Butler, Harry Keating, Carlton Kohler and Albert Barless.

Mrs. Hannah Fox

Sunday morning at 1 o'clock at the family residence, No. 8 Gold street. Mrs. Hannah Fox, widow of the late Thomas Fox, was summoned by death at the age of 70 years, after an illness of several months' duration. Deceased has been a resident of this city for the past fifty years, and had the respect and esteem of a large number of friends. She was a devout member of St. Patrick's church, a kind and loving mother and always ready to lend a helping hand to others in the hour of need. Her death will be sincerely mourned especially in the family circle, where she, by her Christian character, won not only the hearts of her children but of all who came in contact with her. She leaves to mourn her loss six children: Mr. J. M. Fox, Miss Catherine Fox of Milwaukee; Mr. Thomas F. Fox, Mrs. Hannah Hennessey, Mrs. Otto F. Schleker and Miss Winifred E. Fox, all of this city. Funeral services will be held from St. Patrick's church Tuesday morning at 9:15. The funeral cortege will leave the house at 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Andrew Flynn

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock Mrs. Andrew Flynn, an old and respected resident of Rock county, died at her home about three miles west of Footville. Deceased was 87 years of age, and has been failing in health for the past few months. Her death was due to infirmities of age. Mrs. Flynn was one of the oldest residents of Footville, and her death will be deeply mourned by her many friends in Rock county. She leaves to mourn her loss three children, Mrs. Frank Fitzgerald and Thomas Flynn of Footville, and John J. Flynn of this city. Also a sister, Mrs. Anna Nolan of this city. Funeral services will be held from the Footville Catholic church, Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. The interment will be at Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Shirley DeForest
Shirley DeForest died Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Palmer Memorial hospital, having had an operation two weeks ago, but owing to her frail condition she was unable to gain strength and finally passed peacefully away. She was born in Albany, N. Y., in 1853 and was 51 years of age. She leaves a father, mother, three brothers and one sister to mourn her loss. Private funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon from the hospital and the remains will be buried in Oak Hill cemetery.

Michael Kelley
Funeral services over the remains of the late Michael Kelley were held this morning at 10 o'clock. The interment was at Mt. Olivet cemetery. Those who attended the funeral from out of town were: Mr. Kelly, Misses Hannah and Eva Kelley, Brooklyn; Mrs. Nevel, Mendota; Mrs. Boyd, Evansville; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kelley, Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Halley, Baraboo.

Miss Columbia's Jewels For The Fair

THIS OUGHT TO INTEREST MANY

GAZETTE OFFERS FREE TRIP TO THE FAIR.

THE CONTEST IS NOW OPEN

Read the Conditions Carefully, and Then Choose Your Candidate for the Honor Offered.

In 1893 the Gazette held a voting contest by which the most popular working man in the city and his wife were given a week's trip to the World's Fair at Chicago all expenses paid, including his weeks wages while absent from his work.

As a result of the contest which was very spirited, Frank Dewey of the Janesville Machine Company and his wife enjoyed an outing at the Chicago World's Fair entirely free of cost.

The Gazette has decided to again make it possible for some working man and his wife to visit the World's Fair at the paper's expense.

A voting contest was inaugurated Saturday and will be carried on until August 31st, to determine who is the most popular workingman in the city of Janesville. The one who receives the largest number of votes will be sent to St. Louis accompanied by his wife to spend seven days at the World's Fair—the Gazette footing all bills.

Railroad fare to and from St. Louis for the lucky pair will be paid and board and lodging at a first class hotel near the fair grounds, six admission tickets for the gentleman and lady, street car fare, theatre tickets—all will be included in this offer, and to make it even more enjoyable the workingman will be paid his regular week's wages, just as if he had put in full time at the factory or whatever place his avocation may call him. There will be no loss of time and the holiday will be worth struggling for.

The Gazette will do every thing to make the week pleasant and profitable.

Here is an opportunity for some worthy man and his wife, too, to demonstrate their popularity and to secure a week's trip to the greatest World's Fair ever attempted, absolutely without cost to themselves.

This offer is even greater than was the Chicago contest of 1893.

The St. Louis Fair covers about twice the ground of the Chicago fair and is by far more magnificent in every way.

The women can do their full share toward securing the trip for themselves and their better halves. A half hour's day spent in looking up people who are not Gazette subscribers or in prevailing upon those who are subscribers to pay in advance for the paper, can help their husbands to win the prize.

A lot of hustle on the part of both will be very liable to land both in the car headed for St. Louis.

As you will notice the premium in votes for new subscribers is large and then, too, the friend who takes a paper to help a friend, will cut out the ballots in his Gazette and save them for him.

Coupons will appear in every issue of the Daily Gazette from now until August 31st. The contest will be conducted strictly "on the square." No partiality or unfair advantage will be taken or allowed in any case.

Cut out the coupon each day, enter the name of your favorite and forward to the Gazette office.

The popularity of the candidate is to be determined by the number of votes cast for him.

Premiums—in addition to the regular schedule, new subscriptions will secure premiums when paid in advance as follows:

One month paid in advance 100 votes.
Three months paid in advance 400 votes.
Six months paid in advance 1000 votes.
One year paid in advance 2500 votes.

Regular Schedule.—Both old and new subscribers who pay in advance and for all coupons will receive the same number of votes—that is for every cent paid in advance during this contest.

4 votes until midnight, July 2d.
3 votes until midnight, July 30th.
2 votes until 10:00 p. m., August 31st.

1 vote for all coupons clipped from the Gazette and forwarded at this office before 10:00 p. m., August 31st. We will be square with you and you must be square with us. No person will be allowed to stop his paper and send to another name at the same address, neither will be allowed to stop one day and start the next to claim premiums offered. New subscriptions are those not on our books June 4th. The subscription price to the Daily Gazette by carrier is 50 cents per month, $1.25 three months in advance, $2.50 six months in advance, $5.00 one year in advance. By mail in the country, four months $1 in advance, six months $1.50 in advance, one year $3 in advance. By mail outside of county one year $4 in advance.

Now get your shears and put on your hustling clothes, you can win.

OHIO BUILDING

NEW JERSEY BUILDING

UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT BUILDING

(By Walton Pawcett.)

For the average American visitor to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition probably the chief source of interest and pride—aside from elation over the bigness of the show, which so far surpasses all other World's fairs—will be found in the part taken in this most wonderful of exhibitions by Uncle Sam and the sovereign states of the union. Assuredly there is ample cause for gratification over the showing made by the nation and its integral parts. To be sure, one would naturally expect to find American displays pre-eminent in an exposition held in the very heart of the republic, but the jewels in Miss Columbia's crown have fairly outdone themselves, individually and collectively, even as compared to the distinctly creditable showing made at Chicago.

The idea of a great collection of buildings reared as monuments to the integral parts of a consolidated republic is a distinctly unique one which is supposed to have originated in the United States, and which obviously cannot be introduced so consistently or satisfactorily in a world's fair held anywhere else on the globe. The idea of these state mecas was one of the prominent features of the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago and served so admirably as an incentive to local pride in the fair on the part of people in all parts of the country, that it was adopted to some extent at the Omaha and Buffalo expositions and elsewhere, but never on such a scale as it has been introduced in the beautiful Ivory City at St. Louis.

It should, perhaps, be explained just here that these state buildings are not designed to serve to any great extent as repositories for exhibits from the respective divisions of the country. Their purpose is rather that of monuments to the greatness of the commonwealths, although not infrequently they typify in their character the historical importance of the state represented or proclaim in the component material the wonders of its resources. Finally, each building finds its best mission in the function of a social rendezvous and common meeting place for the people of the state whose greatness it symbolizes.

Almost every star in our flag is represented in the great garland of monumental edifices at St. Louis. To be explicit, there are 41 state and territorial buildings, the only states not thus represented being Alabama, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Nebraska, North Carolina, South Carolina, North Dakota and Wyoming. Even some of these members of the sisterhood of states whose legislatures did not deem it appropriate for the erection of special homes have opened headquarters in rented buildings. That these state buildings are wholly creditable to the territorial units which they represent may be appreciated from the fact that a number of them have cost from $50,000 to $200,000 each, exclusive of the cost of furnishing.

Many of the states have erected as their mecas exact reproductions of historic homes within their borders.

For instance, New Jersey, which has ever kept green the memory of that famous campaign which General Washington conducted within its borders, has reared upon its reservation in the World's Fair grounds a facsimile of the old Lord Tavern at Morristown, the famous house in which the leader of the war for independence had his headquarters. Likewise Virginia, the mother of states as well as of Presidents, has placed on the banks of the Mississippi a stately edifice which in its minutest detail a copy of the manor house Monticello, designed and erected by Thomas Jefferson.

Every state has given to the states in the matter of a choice of memorials, and in consequence there are many buildings which, while emblematic of the state represented, are decidedly distinctive in character. One of these is the Maine building, a low, rambling structure of heavy logs, just such as one might expect to find in the heart of the Maine woods, whither only the hunter and the woodsman have penetrated. The Washington building is equally unique from an architectural standpoint, and serves as a convincing object-lesson of the timber resources of the Puget Sound country.

The New England states have for the most part inclined to the reproduction of buildings of historic interest. Massachusetts has rejuvenated the old statehouse. Vermont has reproduced the old constitution house at Windsor in which was framed the first state constitution in which reference was made to religious liberty. New Hampshire will show her guests in what sort of a house Daniel Webster lived at Franklin, N. H., and Connecticut has duplicated the old Sigmund Mausson.

Not a few of the states have endeavored to provide buildings which are either masterpieces of the purest classical architecture, or represent the best type of modern architecture as it appears in the most beautiful buildings at their respective state capitals. This idea has been carried out wholly or in part by such states as Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Rhode Island and Iowa. Texas has a building in the form of a five-pointed Lone Star; the California building is strongly reminiscent of the always attractive Old Mission style of architecture, and Oregon is represented by a model of Fort Clatsop, which, established by Lewis and Clark, constituted the first American fort on the Pacific coast.

Naturally those states whose territory is embraced within the limits of what was originally Louisiana purchase have striven to provide buildings worthy of the positions of prominence which they occupy in this great celebration. Louisiana has been especially fortunate in her choice of material, having constructed a building fashioned in conformity to the lines of the celebrated Cabildo in New Orleans, where occurred the formal transfer of the richest single slice of territory ever acquired by Uncle Sam. The lawn in front of this Louisiana building is a faithful reproduction of Jackson Square in New Orleans as it appeared in the days when history was being made in the Crescent City that would affect the entire future destiny of the nation, Missouri, of course, has a most pretentious building, and the other purchase states have all acquitted themselves creditably.

The social life of the World's Fair will revolve around these state buildings. In fact, each will be a social center in itself. Almost every one of the states have designated as hostesses for the state building prominent social leaders from their leading cities. These ladies will remain almost constantly at St. Louis throughout the course of the big exhibition, and it will be their pleasant duty to arrange social events of all kinds designed to uphold the dignity of their state and contribute to the enjoyment of its citizens who may visit the fair. In many of the state buildings residential apartments have been provided for a portion or all of the state commissioners and the regularly delegated hostesses so that it is reasonably certain that some representatives of the state will always be in attendance to extend hospitalities.

Each member of Uncle Sam's family will have a specially designated state day, when the building of the commonwealth which is to be particularly honored will be the center of interest of the entire exposition. On this occasion the governor and his staff will be formally welcomed by the exposition officials, there will be addresses by prominent citizens and an especially large outpouring of loyal sons and daughters of the state, who will be brought to St. Louis by thousands on special trains.

Of course, these formal celebrations will be entirely distinct and apart from the pleasant social affairs which will be held at intervals throughout the period of the fair. These latter will be for the most part, in the form of reception, but New York, which has installed a $50,000 organ in its $50,000 building, will have musicals as one of the features of its social program, and other states will likewise seek to devise entertainments of a more or less unique character.

A large portion of the average state building is given over to reception, reading and rest rooms for the accommodation of those visitors who wish to make their state building a headquarters during their stay at the fair. In most cases the adornment of these rooms is designed to call attention to the resources of the state, and in a few cases the interior of a state home is little short of a museum. Some of the buildings contain furnishings well calculated to arouse the admiration and interest of every visitor, whether a native of the commonwealth or not. For instance, the Colonial furniture and hangings in the artistic Connecticut buildings are estimated to be worth more than $20,000, and the reproduction of the home of General Gordon, erected by Georgia, and Mississippi's restoration of Beauvoir, the home of Jefferson Davis, both hold relics that are priceless to the citizens of these states.

The people of California, with that characteristic energy which has enabled them to make a notable exhibit at every American exposition in recent years, have expended much effort in securing novelties for their state building—a reproduction of the old Rabida Mission. The furniture throughout the building is in the Mission style, and there have been especially constructed for the parlors three pianos made of California. In many of the state buildings there will be concerts twice a week, with receptions and afternoon teas sandwiched in between. The hostesses in charge will take turns in the active direction of the entertainments of the governor of the state heads the list of hostesses and will in a measure map out the general social program. Club women of the various states will also take turns in entertaining the club women of the nation at their respective state buildings.

At some of the state buildings there are restaurants for the accommodation of those visitors who follow the very common practice of making their home building a meeting place at the luncheon hour. One state, Minn., employs regularly in its building a competent trained nurse who is capable of ministering to minor ailments of all kinds. California is planning to serve its popular orange cider to fatigued visitors, and some other states will serve light refreshments on the special days set apart for the formal dedication of their buildings.

While the individuality of the states is being so prominently featured at St. Louis, it is also well to emphasize the fact that at no previous exposition has the whole country been represented so creditably as by the present government exhibit, which is housed in a magnificent building of classical design ornamented with sculptural work of the most elaborate character. Then, too, the states of the Louisiana Purchase territory are still further honored by representation in the Colonnade of states, an ornamental conception which flanks Festival Hall and the central cascade, and thus occupies a prominent place in the architectural and decorative triumphs—the virtual

BULL FIGHT MOB BURNS STADIUM DECLINES TO GIVE UP MONEY

Management is Headless of Demand for Return of Admission Fee and Crowd of Angry Spectators Set Fire to the Structure.

St. Louis, Mo., June 6.—Failure to carry out the Spanish bull fight which had been advertised to take place in the stadium at the exposition grounds Sunday started a riot of 2,500 men and boys that only ended after a fierce fight between the mob and county officers and by the burning of the immense structure in which the fight was to have taken place.

The crowd waited for almost an hour for the gory battle between the matadors and bulls to begin. The bulls had been driven into the arena by cowboys when a representative of the sheriff entered the ring and declared that the fight could not be carried out.

The crowd halted the announcement with hoots and angry cries for its money. When the management refused to pay back the $1 paid for each ticket and called upon the police to drive the riotous mob from the building the fight began.

Set Fire to Building. Once outside the mob began to bombard the frame building with stones. Some malicious person set fire to a ball of paper and tossed it onto the low roof. The idea caught the crowd's fancy, and while hundreds fought, the police other hundreds hunted for paper to fire and toss at the building.

In five minutes the air was filled with the fiery balls. Some one crept unobserved into the building by a rear entrance and threw a lighted match into the hay bins.

Within less than half an hour the building was in ashes. It was valued at $25,000.

During the progress of the fight four of the rioters were placed under arrest. The crowd mistaking them for deputy sheriffs, attempted to mob them.

Governor Stops Exhibition. Governor Dockery had been advised of the intention of the management of the bull-fighting enterprise, and was petitioned to prohibit the brutal affair. He issued orders that the fight should not be allowed, but despite these instructions from the governor the show officials continued in their plans and filled the seats and stalls about the arena to overflowing at $1 a head.

Before the beginning of the feature of the evening a number of cowboys drove a herd of bulls about the center of the arena, emulating the tricks of embryo wild west riders. The crowd hooted its disapproval and yelled for the real carnage to begin. Still the cowboys held to their saddles and chased the bulls about the ring, until the crowd, was in a wild state of rage, mingled with expectancy for the coming battle.

Finally, when it was seen that something desperate would be done unless the howling mass of humanity was appeased in some way, a gayly bedecked announcer stepped forth and called out that the fight would immediately proceed.

Refuse to Refund Money. This quieted the spectators until the matadors appeared. His reception was boisterous and echoed throughout the fair grounds. But then there came a hitch. A county official stepped into the ring and handed the announcer a written command to stop proceedings where they were.

The matadors disappeared and the crowd sat in wonderment. Then the truth dawned upon them, and with cries of vengeance the disappointed spectators leaped into the arena and demanded the return of their money. It was not forthcoming, and then followed one of the most disgraceful and predatory rampages St. Louis has ever known. The office outside of the stadium was first attacked and was soon demolished with rocks.
